THE ACTING BURGLAR

ARCHETYPE

Forget the big scenes that you read about in history accounts. Nobody has really big scenes anymore, unless you go to the heart of the Vatori Empire—and you aren't going there. You are quite content with going from settlement to settlement with your ensemble and perform for whomever lives there. It doesn't pay much, but you do get to travel, and your ability to boost the show with nanite art is appreciated. Your job and your abilities also give you the opportunity for a bit of income on the side. It is illegal but not exactly immoral, as you only burglar the rich. At least that is how you see things.

Special: Your core bond is with subspace nanites.

ARCHETYPE BOON

You own a Voice Simulator. It is a colonial tool used to speak really foreign languages while sounding like one of the planet's original inhabitants. You use it mostly to make character voices. It requires about 1 e per show to use.
